

Industry Leader Bruce Ranck elected Chairman of Liquid Environmental Solutions

Former BFI CEO becomes non-executive chairman of nation's leading recycler of liquid waste

DALLAS, Texas, March 22, 2010 – Liquid Environmental Solutions today announced the election of Bruce Ranck as non-executive Chairman of the Board of Directors. Mr. Ranck has been a Board member since 2003 and will provide leadership in the continued development of the company's business and growth strategy.

Mr. Ranck was the Chief Executive Officer of Browning-Ferris Industries ("BFI"), the second largest solid waste company in North America, from 1995 through its sale in 1999. Prior to its sale, BFI had annual revenues of $6 Billion and the 1999 transaction was valued at $9.1 Billion. Prior to assuming the position of CEO, Mr. Ranck served in increasingly responsible roles at BFI, including President and Chief Operating Officer. He was elected to the Board of BFI in 1990. After the sale of BFI, Mr. Ranck served as the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Tartan Textile Services, a linen management services company serving the healthcare and hospitality industries from 2002 to 2005. Mr. Ranck has served on the Boards of Furon Company, Chase Bank of Texas and SITA, the largest non-North American waste services company in the world. Mr. Ranck currently serves as a director of Dynamex (NASDAQ: DDMX) and Quanta Services (NYSE: PWR).

"As the nation's leading recycler of liquid waste, Liquid Environmental Solutions job is to protect our country's water resources and find ways to reduce and recycle our customers' waste. I am excited to continue helping our management team and other Board members grow this outstanding company which has a unique commitment to the environment, customer service and compliance and safety. This is a great time to be part of Liquid Environmental Solutions as we continue to innovate and build an industry that will be such an important part of protecting our planet for future generations", said Bruce Ranck following his election as chairman of the Company.

"We are extremely grateful to the dedicated and renowned business leaders who serve on our Board of Directors. They have guided Liquid Environmental Solutions to its recognized leadership role in creating a liquid waste recycling industry. We are deeply honored that Bruce Ranck, one of the most respected executives in the waste industry, is serving in this enhanced leadership role for our Company," said Alan Viterbi, Chief Executive Officer, Liquid Environmental Solutions.

Other continuing members of Liquid Environmental Solutions' Board of Directors are: Michael Kahn, Senior Counsel to Crowell & Moring, LLP and former chairman of the California Electricity Oversight Board and the state's Green Energy Team; Robert Nugent, the former Chairman and CEO of Jack in the Box; Tom Soto, Managing Director of Craton Equity Partners; Joseph A. Walker, former Co-Head of Global Mergers & Acquisitions for J.P. Morgan; and Mr. Viterbi, the Company's CEO.

About Liquid Environmental Solutions

Liquid Environmental Solutions is known for innovation and leadership in protecting customers from liability and ensuring regulatory compliance, while minimizing their environmental footprint. Focused exclusively on recycling customers' liquid waste, Liquid Environmental Solutions collects, treats and beneficially recovers materials from a wide variety of waste sources, including grease traps, industrial and manufacturing processes, used cooking oil, and waste oil. With over 300 team members, a state of the art fleet of vacuum trucks, eleven wastewater treatment plants, and a network of preferred partners, Liquid Environmental Solutions is positioned to meet customers' liquid waste recycling needs throughout the United States. For more information about our company, our people and our environmental solutions, please visit www.liquidenviro.com.

###

Media Contacts

Dana King
Liquid Environmental Solutions
+1.619.840.4045
dana.king@liquidenviro.com